

I have been a paying customer of XM radio for almost 2 years. XM provides quality programming that local radio refuses to aspire to. I am stunned that NAB would even try to dictate what services XM can provide. Instead, they should inspire local radio to rise to higher levels of quality service. Satellite radio listeners are effectively telling radio & the NAB that we are turning "off" your poor service and switching stations. If I want to listen to weather/traffic on demand, then someone should have the opportunity to provide that service. NAB needs to grow with the changing needs/desires of consumers.....not try to inhibit the rights of the consumers to purchase a better product. Sincerely,
Valerie Zak
A satisfied XM customer & US consumer